About me

I am a teacher, researcher and designer with a hands on approach. Because of my eclectic background, my professional skill set is very versatile: I hold excellent analytical skills and ability to understand and organize challenging data (researcher in me), ability to present complex information in an understandable and inspiring form to large, global audiences (teacher in me), exceptional visualization skills (designer in me), as well as increased ability to operate under pressure (dates back to my history as a live TV graphic designer). I'm very fast at adapting new knowledge and tools, and understanding the "bigger picture". However, because of my extrovert personality, I'm at my best when collaborating with other people and learning from them. I shine, when I'm trusted and given responsibility.

Experience

UNIVERSITY TEACHER AND LECTURER 2011 - Present

Aalto University School of Arts, Design and Architecture, Helsinki
